

My Favorite Corners of Nashville

Where culture, creativity, and community meet.

As a proud Nashville native, these neighborhoods aren't just places on a map-they're a part of my story. From the creative hum of East Nashville to the refined charm of Brentwood, I've curated a list of my favorite areas in the city I know and love aka “Don’t Miss”. Whether you're moving here, investing, or simply exploring, these are the places where lifestyle and real estate beautifully collide.

East Nashville

Where Creativity Feels Like Home

Why I love it:

- Diverse in every sense-people, homes, and ideas.
- A short drive to downtown but feels like its own vibrant village.
- Rich with locally-owned coffee shops, vintage boutiques, and music studios.

Don't Miss:

- Shelby Bottoms Greenway: Over 900 acres of trails and green space.
- Five Points: The hub of East's art, food, and local events.
- Lockeland Table & Margot Café: Beloved restaurants for date night or brunch.
- East Nashville Magnet School: Known for its academic excellence and creative focus.

Fun Fact:

East Nashville is home to some of the city's most iconic musicians and artists-it's often called "Nashville's Brooklyn."

12 South / Green Hills

Style, Strolls & Signature Shopping

Why I love it:

- I shop for many of my styling clients here-it's effortlessly chic.
- A mix of modern bungalows, historic homes, and upscale condos.
- Excellent dining, wellness studios, and walkable streets.

Don't Miss:

- 12 South Farmers Market: Fresh produce, music, and community events.
- White's Mercantile & Draper James: Locally loved shops.
- Bluebird Café: Nashville's legendary songwriter venue in Green Hills.
- The Mall at Green Hills: High-end shopping with designer stores like Gucci, Louis Vuitton, and more.

Fun Fact:

12 South was once a quiet residential street-now it's one of Nashville's most sought-after lifestyle destinations.

West Meade

Timeless Charm with a Modern Twist

Why I love it:

- It feels like a hidden gem with its mix of old soul and modern architecture.
- It's close to my daughter's school and surrounded by amazing parks and trails.
- A perfect blend of privacy and proximity to the city.

Don't Miss:

- Percy Warner Park: One of the largest municipal parks in the South.
- Belle Meade Historic Site & Winery: A nod to Nashville's rich equestrian past.
- Hillwood Country Club: A favorite for golf and social gatherings.

Fun Fact:

West Meade was once part of the Belle Meade plantation and still reflects a legacy of historic elegance.

Brentwood

Elevated Living Just Beyond the City

Why I love it:

- Stunning homes with thoughtful design and lush landscaping.
- It offers more privacy and a slower pace without sacrificing sophistication.
- Great for families, with top-rated public and private schools.

Don't Miss:

- Crockett Park: A community hub with sports fields, trails, and summer concerts.
- Brentwood Library: A beautiful and award-winning public space.
- Cool Springs Galleria: Just minutes away for shopping and entertainment.

Fun Fact:

Brentwood has one of the highest median household incomes in the state-it's known for its safe, scenic neighborhoods.
